Gov. Stratton Cites Record of Accomplishments in Talk Here

Appears at Rally With Other Members of GOP Caravan

"We are proud of our record these past four years, and we are just as anxious to improve that record during the next four years," Governor William G. Stratton told an overflow crowd at the court-house last night.

Governor Stratton appeared at the Republican rally along with other members of his caravan of state candidates for office, including Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, Attorney General Latham Castle, State Senator Elbert F. Smith of Decatur, candidate for Auditor, Earl C. Pollock, East St. Louis, candidate for clerk of the Appellate Court, and Samuel Jack Scott of Metropolis, candidate for Congress from the 25th district.

State Senator Glen O. Jones introduced the governor, who cited the main accomplishments of his administration and urged the audience to continue its support of that record. Some of the achievements he named:

Aid To Schools
The administration has maintained such a high level of state aid to schools that they have been able to operate satisfactorily without additional federal assistance.

Highways
Governor Stratton pointed out that four years ago Illinois had fallen far behind other states in its highway program, but that since he had taken office, "this administration has produced the greatest program of highway improvement and construction (over $370,000,000) of any administration in the history of the state." Over three million dollars has been spent in Saline county alone, he stated. In addition he pointed to the elaborate system of toll roads in central and northern Illinois, which, because of their toll systems, would not cost the taxpayers one cent.

Recreational Areas
With the state's population on the increase, more and more facilities for recreation are needed, Stratton said, and will be forthcoming. He mentioned as an example that over $250,000 had been spent improving and modernizing Dixon Springs State Park.

State Institutions
State hospitals and prisons are better staffed, have better administration, especially by comparison with the poor condition of state institutions at the end of the previous state administration, Stratton said.

Coal and Mine Safety
"My administration has completely rewritten the state mine safety laws, with new mine safety records occurring as a direct result," the governor pointed out. He also cited the state's purchase of 200,000 tons of southern Illinois coal for use in state institutions, compared with only 70,000 tons each from central and northern Illinois.

Cities Savings
"Through careful control of expenditures and appropriations, this administration has saved the taxpayers of Illinois almost $300,000,000 in the past three and a half years," Stratton said, citing his veto of over $60,000,000 in direct and future appropriations, enactment of the re-bid clause in state highway construction contracting, and other budget-saving economies effected by his administration.

Before concluding his talk, the governor gave brief mention to the coming campaign, as he asked the audience to choose between "... a man who has 20 years' experience in state government, who knows government, and who has produced a genuine record of accomplishment and improvement, or a man

Delinquent Tax List Will Be Published Oct. 1

The Saline county delinquent tax list will be published October 1, Maynard Cannon, county collector, stated today.

Mr. Cannon said that, although costs were added to first installments of real estate in June and to the second installment as of September 1, taxpayers still have the opportunity of saving additional costs if taxes are paid before the list is published.

The additional costs are provided by law to cover cost of the delinquent list, including advertising, making the judgment record and other items.

Preparation of the list is now under way.

Local Merchants To Hold Sidewalk Sales Sept. 27

On Thursday, Sept. 27, the Harrisburg merchants will set up counters and racks literally bulging with bargains on the sidewalks for a big "Sidewalk Sale."

This affair is being sponsored by the Harrisburg Businessmen's Association.

Clerks will be togged out for the occasion in costumes of all descriptions. There will be men and women of the gay nineties, with their blazer coats, straw hats and tight leggings, and men in dusters.

Others will be dressed in the colorful costumes of gypsies—striped shirts, boleros, sashes and leggings.

There's to be Mexicans, pirates, Indians, bull fighters, cowboys, frontiersmen, minstrel men and clowns.

Harrisburg retailers emphasized today as they worked on plans for the "Sidewalk Sale" that there will be bargains at their stores "both on the inside and the outside."

In the evening there will be an entertainment program.

Retail Clerks Vote To Aid Nursing School

It was announced today that the executive board of the Retail Clerks Union voted at the last regular meeting to donate $1.00 per member to the nursing school of the Harrisburg Township high school.

Retail clerks are asked to contact L. D. Gullett to pay their donation or be prepared to pay at the next local meeting.

Just a few days ago a Gallatin county coal operator reported a large loss of copper to Saline county officers.

Working in a new direction, Sneed said it was learned the copper was being sold to the Saline county junk dealers by Roy Lowery, Old Shawneetown, who, when questioned, said he had bought it from the Rushing brothers. Their arrests followed.

Deputy Sheriff Sneed said authorities had been working on the case several weeks as the Saline county junk dealer had reported to the Sheriff's office there was a large amount of copper offered for sale.

Two residents of Gallatin county, Bill Rushing, 37, and Roy Wayne Rushing, 19, have been arrested by Gallatin county authorities and charged with grand larceny, Saline County Deputy Sheriff Everett Sneed, reported this morning.

Saline county authorities entered the picture as a result of large amounts of copper, allegedly stolen by the Rushing brothers, being sold to a junk dealer in Saline county.

Approximately $3,000 of copper is said to have been taken from the Richardson Coal Co., and $500 from the Acme Coal Co., both near Leamington and the Mathais Coal Co., Junction, also reports a loss of $500 in copper. The Lane Grocery store, near Leamington, also had a battery and 35 pounds of copper stolen.

Glacial Drift Endangers Town in South Dakota

23-Month-Old Son of Scott Base Sergeant Suffocates in Bed

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — Death struck for the second time in six months at the home of a Scott Air Force Base sergeant.

The 23-month-old son of S. Sgt. Donald Crisel suffocated in his bed during a nap on Wednesday. The child, John Crisel, lodged his head between the mattress and the head of the bed.

Last April another son, 12-day-old Donald Jr., drowned in his bath while Mrs. Crisel was attending another child.

Death Takes Mrs. Anna Stiff, 79; Funeral Sunday

Mrs. Anna Stiff, 79, who lived at 1015 South Granger street, died at 9:30 a. m. today at the Light-hospital. She had been in ill health for the past year.

Mrs. Stiff was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Fox and was born April 20, 1877. She was a member of the First Methodist church.

Funeral services will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. at the Gaskins funeral home with the Rev. W. L. Cummins officiating. Burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery.

She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Grace Dudley and Mrs. Ruth Shetter, both of Pontiac, Mich.; two brothers, Johnny Fox of Harrisburg and William Fox of Willamina, Ore.; two sisters, Mrs. Meggie Clark, Willamina, Ore., and Mrs. Jane Baumgardner, Harrisburg; five grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

The entire town of 1,367 inhabitants is built on a glacial drift of sand and gravel running to a depth of 90 feet.

Architect Charles Sloan said the shifting and faulting could reach "disaster proportions." He said it may be impossible to save the high school and St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

During the last several months the entire outer edge of the church settled down and away from center. In some places the outer wall had pulled to four to eight inches away from the floor.

Blame Damming up River
But panic was nowhere evident among townpeople.

Mayor J. J. Murphy said "I can't say people are alarmed. Naturally they are concerned. There is a solution, I hope. But any answer right now will be a guess."

Three community leaders, Leonard Olson, Elmer Ruser and Belmont Johnson, said the earth movement and resulting cracks didn't appear until the Missouri River was dammed off upstream at Gavins Point and Ft. Randall.

"Our troubles began when they dammed up the river," Gurney said.

They thought that two consecutive dry years, coupled with the low river stage, had caused the powdery dry ground to slip.

Ceylon Carman, a farmer who lives northwest of here, said he had a dozen or more cave-ins in his field of alfalfa. The holes were 3 to 6 feet wide and 18 inches deep.

The three-story stone courthouse also was among other civic buildings which have shifted.

Charles Sloan, Sioux Falls architect, inspected buildings Thursday and said there was little which could be done immediately. Sloan said the glacial drift causing the trouble was 90 feet underground, making it economically unfeasible to attempt saving the structures by driving pilings below the shifting material.

The mayor said the settling has occurred for about a year, but became acute only within the past three days. Four distinct shocks were felt in the high school Wednesday and supports were placed Thursday against a buckling wall of the school.

Four Prisoners Escape from Menard Prison Through Steam Pipe Tunnel

CHESTER, Ill. (AP) — A search continued today for four men who escaped from Menard State Prison here Thursday night through a steam pipe tunnel.

State police summoned an airplane to join in the search and threw up road blocks in the Randolph County area. Bloodhounds, 14 state police cars and 200 prison guards began the search after the 11 p. m. break.

Warden Ross Randolph said some or all of the men may have escaped in a car stolen in Chester shortly after the break. It is a 1950 black Chevrolet coupe bearing Illinois license plates No. 2-346-191.

The escapes and their descriptions are:
Paul Donald Smith, 21; 5 feet 11 inches; 178 pounds; dark hair; gray eyes; medium complexion; serving a 10 to 25 year sentence from Cole County for burglary.

High School Evacuated As Walls Crack

Bottom of Elk Point Appears to Be Dropping Out

ELK POINT, S. D. (AP) — A subterranean glacial drift endangered this entire town today and the high school was evacuated when its walls began to crack.

Foundations and walls of other community buildings and homes were sagging and cracking as the bottom of the town literally appeared to be dropping out.

Gov. Joe Foss of South Dakota and other state officials announced plans for an inspection trip here to determine what if any emergency measures could be taken.

Stengel Proposes Expanded Food Shipments; Dirksen Praises GOP Record

By United Press
Democrat Richard Stengel today proposed that the United States expand its distribution of surplus foods to hungry nations.

Stengel, candidate for the U. S. Senate, said that each time expanded distribution of surplus foods is proposed "Mr. Dulles and the State Department step in and object that we may offend those nations which are selling their own foodstuffs to the hungry people."

They say we may offend the food exporting nations," Stengel said in a campaign speech at Monticello. Stengel urged that the United States "brush aside these invalid arguments."

He said surplus food stocks have increased from two billion dollars worth to eight billion dollars worth since 1952 and "it would be much better for these supplies to be earning us friends than collecting mold and rental charges" in government warehouses.

Stengel's Republican opponent, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, meanwhile, spoke in northern Illinois where he said the GOP has a "consistent" record for giving the nation peace and prosperity.

Dirksen told audiences at Sycamore, De Kalb and Aurora that Democrats depended on war to give the nation a "semblance" of prosperity.

He predicted women voters will "overwhelmingly" support the GOP's record of peace and prosperity.

One of the first persons Mr. Eisenhower met after his arrival on the contest grounds was Henry J. Steenhok, a Republican farmer who has announced his intention to vote against Mr. Eisenhower this fall because of Benson.

It was on Steenhok's farm that Mr. Eisenhower ate lunch in a huge tent, and spoke informally later in the afternoon.

If Mr. Eisenhower knew Steenhok's background, he did not acknowledge it, but merely smiled broadly and shook hands. Steenhok said later, when asked if he had an opportunity to tell the President about his views, "they don't give you much of a chance."

Steenhoek said it was not just a matter of voting for a single individual such as Mr. Eisenhower. He said he did not approve of some of Mr. Eisenhower's "attitudes," particularly Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

Stevenson Accuses President of Half Facts on Peace, Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson packed his bags today for another campaign tour, charging President Eisenhower told "only half the facts" about the outlook for peace and progress.

The Democratic presidential nominee, winding up a week of staff planning here, motored to suburban Silver Springs, Md., Thursday night to reply sharply to the President's Wednesday night television talk.

Stevenson accused the President of making "misleading implications" when he talked about "only half the facts" about the outlook for peace and progress.

One was that the United States explore ways of halting hydrogen bomb tests. The other was that this country consider whether the military draft might be ended.

Clergy Share Viewpoint Stevenson told a crowd of about 3,800 that when Mr. Eisenhower called the H-bomb proposal a "theatrical national gesture" he "indicated not only me but churchmen and political leaders the world over ... who have made similar proposals."

The Democratic nominee said these leaders included Pope Pius XII, representatives of some Protestant churches, and others.

The candidate will leave Saturday on a nine-day plane trip covering almost 7,000 miles. Stevenson was working today on the first speech of that tour, to be delivered Saturday at a plowing contest in Newton, Iowa.

Stevenson also said in his speech Thursday night that "if the President intends to foreclose debate on these proposals, I think he does the nation a disservice and I must dissent and persist in my efforts to invite public attention to matters of such grave concern as the hydrogen bomb and national security."

Comments on Speech
Stevenson said "The President gave us a reassuring picture of progress and peace in the world today. I think it is unfortunate that he chose again to state only half the facts."

He said Mr. Eisenhower spoke of rolling back Communism in Vietnam without mentioning that half of that country had been lost to the Communists.

He said the President talked of defending Formosa but "must have forgotten" that former President Truman sent the Seventh Fleet to defend the Chinese Nationalist island.

"When he said 'We have seen an end to the old pattern of tragedy,' he left out any reference to the ominous tensions which today mark Africa and the Middle East," Stevenson said.

An Inspiration?

According to the gossip mills, some of the boys who cater to the teen-age entertainment trade are proposing what they believe could be the smash tie-up of the century.

They want Elvis Presley, who "sings" while he writes as if seeking to escape a cobra's embrace, to do the movie life story of the late James Dean, a talented young actor who in death is getting more attention than he did in life.

Putting these two teen-age "crushes" together obviously would be an inspiration equal to running "Gone With the Wind" and "Birth of a Nation" as a double feature.

Now if they can just get Eddie Fisher to sing the inevitable theme song, and have actor Tab Hunter run around addressing the nation's youth to promote the film, they may really stagger the box office. Indeed, if even half this prospect comes to pass, television may be dead.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

(Editor: Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his grandson, Drew Arnold, written from Israel.)
DREW PEARSON SAYS:
Peaceful Israel Pastures Belie Israel-Arab Tension; Arab Legionnaires Suspicious Of American TV Cameras; Quakers Once Brought Friendship To Mexico.

Tel Aviv, September 17, 1956
Dear Drew,
The other day I went to a farm in Israel not far from the border of Jordan. Jordan, as you may know from your Sunday school, is now an Arab country, while Israel is Jewish.

There isn't much of a border between them, and when I interviewed a Jewish tractor driver on his farm in Israel, the wind blew the fertilizer dust from his fertilizer spreader across the border and helped to improve the soil of Arab Jordan. He was spreading fertilizer on his farm just as we do in Maryland, only his land was so rocky that we wouldn't even have considered farming it in Maryland.

Across the border in Jordan were some Arab children tending a flock of sheep. There were no fences, and the sheep, who don't know much about international borders, would have walked right over into Israel except that the little Arab girls didn't let them.

The little Arab girls didn't seem worried about the Jewish tractor.
They were so close that they could talk to the tractor driver, but they were all just as peaceful as the sheep herding you've read about in the Bible, thousands of years ago.

I was interviewing the Jewish tractor driver, whose name was Amos, when two little Arab boys peeked over the brow of the hill to see what we were doing. They were about your age, and after peeking at our camera and TV equipment they disappeared.

TRIGGER-HAPPY ARABS Pretty soon, two members of the Arab Legion, which is the Jordan army, appeared on top of the hill and pointed their rifles at us. They didn't shoot, but they waved with their rifles for us to get away. I suppose they were suspicious of our TV equipment and thought we might be setting up machine-gun nests.

We were on Israel territory and within our rights, but we didn't argue. We left. It doesn't pay to argue when guns are pointed at you. Besides, we had finished our work.

I got to thinking about this afterward as an illustration of what the Holy Land, the land where the Man was born who preached peace, faces today.

The little girls who were tending their flocks had nothing against the Jewish tractor driver just a few yards away. But the Arab Legionnaires, who are trained to fight, were suspicious.

That is what is happening in the Holy Land. The people on both sides of the border want peace.
But some of the leaders don't.
The Arabs who live in Israel have peace. There are about 180,000 of them in Israel and they get along fine with the Jews. I talked to many of them and they work well together and live peaceably together.

clans in the United States stir up the segregation issue because it helps them get elected.

Driving back from the border to Tel Aviv, I passed an Arab village named Jat. Outside was a well, several thousand years old, and Arab women were carrying water from the well to the village on their heads just as Rebecca did when Abraham sought a wife for Isaac many years ago.

And I couldn't help but think that if some of the Jewish people, not the government, should dig a trench and lay a pipe from the well into the village as an act of friendship, it would save those Arab women from carrying water and might break down some of this suspicion between Arabs and Jews. For word would go back behind the Arab iron curtain to Jordan, telling how the Jewish people were helping the Arabs.

I remember how the Quakers, the religious group your grandfather belongs to, dug a two-mile trench and laid a pipe into a Mexican village near Tampico which never had had water before.

It wasn't only that they brought water to a village that had never had water, it was that young Quakers bent their backs and dug the trench themselves that impressed the Mexicans and won a lot of friendship for the United States.

Jews Want Peace

The Jewish people are doing a wonderful job here. They are building a great country, and they are being fair to the Arab people inside their borders. They also want peace with the Arab people outside their borders.

But they need to worry more over the little boys about your age who peered down over the hill at men and then ran off to tell the Arab Legion about our taking pictures at the bottom of the hill.

Those little boys, if we are not careful, will grow up to spread more suspicion and hate. And if that happens there will be war or the threat of war for years to come in a land that was dedicated to peace.

I will write you soon about all the camels I saw wandering loose near the Dead Sea. They didn't seem to belong to anybody, and

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

Thousands of keys hang on the walls or from the ceilings of a room in Baldpate Inn, high in the Rocky Mountains. These keys have opened locks fashioned to protect the privacy of man from invaders through many years of time.

The individual stories about scores of these keys are fascinating and awe-inspiring, but the most amazing thing is that almost all are different.

Millions of keys are in existence and each one is different. Each must fit the lock it is made to open.
We can scarcely imagine how man could fashion so many little keys which would differ significantly. Yet you and I are different, as is each and every creature which God has ever created.

Each of us fits into a single place in the world and in God's great scheme of things. None of us can be replaced. None can be substituted for another in every detail.

People are more amazing in their likenesses than they are in their differences. All of us can worship a single Creator without crowding others from importance in the eyes of God. All of us could pray at the same time and God would hear us all.

All people are different, but we can all fit into the lock which opens the door to eternal life.

Awarded $111,000 For Rail Injuries

CHICAGO (AP) — A 34-year-old Decatur, Ill., man has won a $111,000 settlement for an injury but had to start all over again remembering his wife, children and education.

Through a head injury suffered nearly four years ago when he was an employee of the Wabash Railroad, William L. Quimby was robbed of his memory. Circuit Court Judge B. Fain Tucker approved the settlement of the original $200,000 suit against the railway Thursday.

Quimby said the injury had "blanked" the memory of his family. He said he would regain the education he once had by attending school.

Air Force Faces Probable Cut in Wing Strength

WASHINGTON — The Air Force faced the likelihood today of a cutback in its planned overall size of 137 wings.

Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson gave weight at his news conference Thursday to already widespread reports that a reduction was planned because of the increasing power and variety of nuclear weapons.

With the deterrent power of such weapons, some defense authorities argue, the Air Force does not need as many men or combat units as previously planned.

Questioned on that point, Wilson said the size of the Air Force is "open for reconsideration" in current military planning for the budget which goes to Congress next January.

"No numbers are sacrosanct," the secretary said, referring to the 137-wing goal. A wing varies in size from 75 fighter planes to 30 heavy bombers.

Offsetting any cut in overall Air Force size, Wilson indicated, may be increases in numbers of planes in operating combat units. The only one he cited, however, was the already known plan to put 45 instead of 30 B52 jet bombers in each wing.

At the same time Wilson ruled out resort to the draft to bolster the lagging military reserve program. Instead of asking Congress to permit drafting men for the six-months active duty training program for young reservists, he said, the Army may be called on to release some of its two-year draftees after only 21 months' service. They would go into the reserves to build up those forces.

France Reports West Promises Aid to Bypass Suez

LONDON — French newspapers said today the West's latest Suez plan provides financial aid to "certain countries" to pay the price of bypassing the canal in an emergency. The United States presumably would supply the financial aid.

The Paris newspapers Le Monde and France-Soir printed what they said were paraphrases of the new constitution for the Anglo-French Suez "users association" which is being drafted at the 18-nation conference here.

Although the United States was not mentioned by name, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is known to have promised to lend the dollars needed to pay for Western Hemisphere oil if the Suez crisis makes it necessary.

Britain and France have been pressing for outright grants of money from the United States rather than loans.

The users association charter was drafted by an experts' committee Thursday and approved tentatively by a majority of the London conferees Thursday night.

Gov. Stratton Cites Record in Talk Here

who has never even had to think about the problems of state government . . . a man hand-picked by a committee, whom most of the people here would not know or recognize if he were to walk into the room tonight."

County Candidates Introduced

The governor spoke first at the meeting because of the necessity of making an early plane connection, and following his speech, which received a standing ovation from the crowd, Sen. Jones introduced county candidates Quentin Bowers, circuit clerk and Elmer Gibbons, coroner, Earl C. Pollock, candidate for clerk of the Appellate Court, and nominees for the legislature Gordon Kerr and C. L. McCormick, who will be elected in November.

Following the introductions, Sen. Jones, stating that the 25th district needed "a man to serve on the Eisenhower team instead of on the bench with the opposition," introduced Samuel Jack Scott, candidate for representative in Congress, who blasted incumbent congressman Kenneth J. Gray as "a man greatly concerned with gaining personal publicity without the accomplishments to show for it."

Pointing out that Gray's record of 19 bills introduced could be summed up by the "no action" written opposite them in the legislative record, Scott said:

"If the congressman claims as his personal accomplishments almost all of the activities of the entire 84th Congress, one feels inclined to ask what the other 434 representatives and 96 senators are doing?"

Castle Cites Record

"You are going to return Mr. Eisenhower to the presidency," Scott said, "and the best way for us to get the maximum benefits we have earned in this district is to send a Republican congressman to Washington to work with him!"

Attorney General Castle, the next speaker, cited the record of his office in the handling of the Hodge case, emphasizing that the state will not lose one penny as a result of the embezzlements.

Senator Smith, candidate for Auditor, spoke briefly of his background of experience as a member of the legislature and his knowledge of state government.

Jones then introduced secretary of state Carpenter, who limited his remarks to some quotations from newspapers all over the state which lauded his record in office, particularly in the traffic division, where every effort was made to reduce accidents and promote highway safety in Illinois.

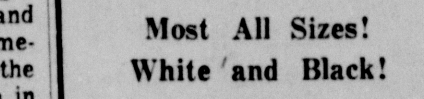

Also present and introduced to the crowd were Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Castle, and Mrs. Smith, who were accompanying their husbands on the caravan. Senator Jones, master of ceremonies, was introduced to the audience by K. C. Capel, chairman of the Saline County Republican Central Committee.

Sen. Fulbright Hits FDIC Role in Hodge Scandal

WASHINGTON — Sen. J. W. Fulbright said today that former Illinois State Auditor Orville Hodge "might never have had an opportunity" to carry out a million-dollar check fraud if the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. "had been more careful" in supervising certain banks.

Fulbright is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee conducting an inquiry into the FDIC's role in the check scandal which sent the Illinois official to prison.

Fulbright said the FDIC let a pattern of poor banking practices develop over the years in certain state banks which led to the scandal.

The Arkansas Democrat was especially critical of FDIC policies in the early 1950s as they related to Henry John J. Beutel, former president of the now-defunct First State Bank of Elmwood Park, Ill., who also had other banking interests in the state. FDIC officials, including then Chairman Maple T. Harl, defended the agency's actions.

Hodge recently was found to have owned a substantial interest in the Bank of Elmwood Park—a successor bank formed after the First State Bank of Elmwood Park was closed in 1953 under orders from Hodge as state auditor.

Army's Famed 101st Division Is Reactivated

FORT CAMPBELL, Ky. — The U. S. Army's famed old 101st Airborne Division returned to the colors today as a brand new type of paratroop unit complete with its own atomic weapons.

Streamlined with only 11,500 men, the reactivated "Hundred and First" is designed for rapier thrusts into enemy territory in a big nuclear war and "fire-brigade" action to stop little wars.

Its "Honest John" rockets, able to hurl atomic warheads 20 miles, and other new weapons including eventually a still-secret atomic gun will give the "screaming eagles" division far more firepower than the conventional airborne outfit of 17,300 troops.

The division paraded and gave airborne exhibitions at its new home base here in a rousing "Organization Day" ceremony, under the critical eyes of Army Secretary Wilber M. Brucker, Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor and a host of other dignitaries.

"Organized for battle in an atomic war" and embodying "the most modern concepts of military science," as Brucker has said, the 101st symbolizes the soldiers' new air mobility and firepower.

Expect Quick Order Against Ban on Negroes

By United Press

A prospect of a possible quick court reversal of a ban on Negroes at the briefly integrated Sturgis, Ky., high school apparently kept National Guardsmen at the campus today.

Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield kept Guardsmen garrisoned in the trouble spot in a move interpreted as an anticipation of a quick court order to integrate again.

Maj. Gen. J. J. B. Williams, state adjutant general, Thursday recommended that he be allowed to withdraw his troops, because the school has returned to normal with the eight Negro students gone.

But Waterfield, acting in the absence of Gov. A. B. Chandler from the state, refused on the ground that "there are other factors involved."

Aides in the governor's office at Frankfort interpreted this as a reference to the prospect that Negro attorney James A. Crumlin may seek a court order for readmission of the Negroes, who were turned away by local school authorities two days ago.

The unsettled condition in western Kentucky was reflected in a heightened campaign of speech-making by segregationists against school integration movements.

Negroes protesting on the other hand against an investigation by Southern Democratic congressmen of school integration at the nation's capital received mollifying words from President Eisenhower, who said word that he believed no harm would result.

THE STORY: Colonel Buyers, Civil Defense chief, has had to make a decision. Thousands of people in the bombed portion of Harrington must be left to their fate in order to save the rest of the city.

Buyers glanced at his wrist watch: 10:28 p. m., almost one full hour since the bomb exploded. He read quickly through the pile of messages. They told of automatic aid units arriving in hazardous numbers at the various Aid Check Points surrounding the city. Fire equipment, doctors and nurses and medical supplies, bulldozers, trucks, cars, station wagons and buses, giant cranes, rescue teams, tankers with vital gasoline and other hundreds of pieces of equipment and thousands of people were filtering in through the Aid Check Points. Buyers knew that much of the material coming through the ACPs was being routed directly into the "combat zones," while the remainder, as it drifted in, was shunted into supply dumps and reserve pools scattered through the zones to be ordered out on request.

Besides the messages Goldblum had screened for him—these were merely information copies—only a single message group awaited his signature and authorization for action.

As soon as the message had been initiated, he turned to Goldblum. "Send State a message to the effect that we have definitely established attack with one atomic bomb, high air burst. Tell them a firestorm is anticipated and that I am evacuating part of the city. "And that they will be getting requests shortly from us for more fire equipment and people, medical supplies, and aides. That's all, Morris, until State asks for a situation report."

Buyers called to a messenger standing at the foot of the raised stand. "Son, go down to the map boards and tell the plotters I'm setting up a phone conference with all Zone Headquarters. I want them to listen in and plot what they hear."

The youngest, a 16-year-old in the Civil Air Patrol, said "Yes sir," and left.

Colonel Buyers picked up his desk telephone and signaled the main switchboard. "Mary? Set up an open-wire conference with each of the zones immediately. Make sure Goldblum and Morrison are in on the wire."

Each man responded from his zone; Paul Kackowski from Zone One, Edwin Sprague from Zone Two, and Sidney Preiss from Zone Three. Thompson, Kraines, and Chittenden listened in from the maps, Goldblum on the director's extension line, and Morrison from his desk.

Buyers' voice carried metallically over the wire. "You all have the evacuation order. I want to know what fire conditions are in each of your zones. Kackowski, start off."

"Colonel, we're getting a pretty strong wind blowing to the southwest. It's picking up steadily and is doing about 20 miles per hour right now... that's an increase of at least 15 miles in the last 45 minutes. Our sector headquarters group is still moving back from the evacuation area. They have reported very heavy fires and a steadily increasing wind. All warden reports so far received from south of Washington Avenue are stressing heavy fire."

Buyers cut in. "Sprague? Go ahead."

"Sector team got in as far as City Hall, but began to pull out on the evacuation order. We lost contact with them about five minutes ago; said that they were surrounded by flames and were afraid of being cut off. Before they stopped sending they reported the wind blowing the fires toward the east, and that fire had already blocked off Main Street east of City Hall. The sector chief told me that the wind was hitting about 40 when he started to pull back."

"Preiss?"

"The sector crew didn't get much further in than Lincoln Boulevard. Streets were all blocked, fires bad and spreading fast. They say the people trying to get out have all gone crazy, don't know which way to run. A big fire started in the rail yards... about 40 tankers blew. We were going to let it burn itself out but the wind is picking up pretty hard, and the sheds are going."

"All right," Colonel Buyers said, "that's all for now."

He replaced the telephone in its cradle and leaned back in his seat. The control center was hot and muggy with the warmth of all the bodies in the room, and smoke was forming in a thick pall.

No human being would escape from within the confines of the storm once it was born and rushing toward maturity. Buyers realized this only too well; it was this sickening knowledge which prompted him to take the terrible gamble of ordering evacuation before it was definitely established that the firestorm was developing. Had he waited, it would have been too late.

If he had guessed wrong, Buyers could never have faced his friends and fellow men again.

If there had been no firestorm Buyers would later stand accused of murder. Murder by virtue of a mistaken and stupid decision. Regardless of the intent, regardless of the knowledge that, if the firestorm developed, he would lose the crucial civil defense forces and equipment which must be preserved to save the remainder of the city, he would have been charged with wanton, callous slaughter of 50,000 men, women and children. Rehabilitation By State Aids 4,139 Handicapped in June Rehabilitation made it possible for 4,139 handicapped Illinoisans to find suitable jobs during the year that ended in June. This was reported today by George Barr, chairman of the Governor's Committee on Employment of the Physically Handicapped.

Barr said that these men and women, trained by the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, earned a total of $3,424,468, based on starting salaries. The amount represents an increase of 41 per cent over their earnings before rehabilitation, and it is nearly four times more than the retraining program cost the state. Barr pointed out that as the handicapped workers' earning power increases, they are able to "repay" in taxes what public funds were expended on their rehabilitation. Barr said the DVR program is supported in equal parts by state and Federal funds.

Barr reported that in 1956 an additional 12,144 handicapped workers were placed on jobs through the Illinois State Employment Service and its special job counseling program for the disabled. He said this number is more than 21 per cent greater than such placements in the highest previous year, 1954.

Noble Adios Wins Little Brown Jug Pacing Classic

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Noble Adios, a noble member of harness racing's most royal family, headed for the Big Red Mile at Lexington, Ky., today to clinch his claim to top honors of the season among three-year-old pacers.

The Noble completely vindicated his owner, Paul Wixom of Chicago, who paid $34,000 for him, by winning Thursday the famous Little Brown Jug pacing classic in straight heats.

The Chicago colt won the $20,492 first money in two back stretch duels that made the 11th running of the Jug one to long remember.

The Noble met his challengers back there on the stretch of this picturesque county fair track and he left them all in a cloud of dust. He sped on to win in the good times of 2:01 in the first heat and 2:00 4/5 in the second.

Legion to Have Strong Team in Tourney Here

The Harrisburg Legion baseball club will enter a strong team in the Harrisburg Invitational baseball tournament slated to start Saturday at 7:45 p. m. at the VFW park.

The locals will have Bill McNew catching. Bill started the season as a pitcher but fractured a vertebrae in his neck at Southern Illinois University in the spring in a tumbling class. He returned to the team after seven weeks and has been catching since. He is hitting at a .300 clip.

Don Stout, who pitched excellent baseball before he went into service and was signed by the Cardinals. He has played second base most of this season but Manager Charley Nelson has been using him on the mound again and he has been coming through in good style.

John Romanosky, who has been pitching professional ball for the last few seasons will be with the Legion for its last few games of the season. John played with Allentown, Pa., a Cardinal farm club, this season.

Don Wallace has been bothered with a sore arm most of this season but has pitched two fine games in his last two appearances.

John Mills, the youngest member of the Legion club, has pitched excellent baseball at times this season. He also played outfield and came through with some good clutch base hitting.

"Buzz" Kennedy rounds out the mound staff. Buzz hasn't been out for the team long, but he has a good fast ball and has done some good pitching.

Bob Dallas, without as good a year as he has had in past seasons, has been coming on fast in the last few games and collected five hits in the last two.

Merle Dailey has played only part time but performs well anywhere he plays. "Flash" Griffiths is another good all around ball player. He always has been an outstanding infielder and the last few seasons has been hitting the ball at a good clip.

Marion "Dick" Odle is one of the best shortstops playing semi-pro ball. He makes a 400-mile round trip each week to play with Legion. Ronnie Zeigler is a fine infielder and has one of the best pairs of hands in baseball in this area. Harold Gulley is one of the Legion's best long ball hitters.

Frank Logsdon, although not too fast, has made several of the best fielding plays on the VFW field this season. He is one of the better clutch hitters.

James Hay is one of the better outfielders. He is noted for his throwing arm. Bill Threet, who was an outstanding player in high school, has been playing some in the outfield.

Charles Nelson manages the Legion club and Ernest Yuhas coaches the team.

Dodgers Hold Full Game Lead as Pirates Beat Braves, 2-1, in Hot Race

By United Press

Youth may be served someday, but it will have to stand aside tonight while the Brooklyn Dodgers and Milwaukee Braves put their hot pennant race in the hands of "old folks" pitchers Sal Maglie, 39, and Warren Spahn, 35.

Now that the Dodgers are leading by one full game as a result of Milwaukee's pressure-packed, 2-1, 10-inning loss to Pittsburgh Thursday both clubs know the flag could be riding on each pitch.

The plain fact was that this defeat has put the Braves in a tough spot, even though Manager Fred Haney rightly insisted that his club has only "a bad cough" and isn't dead yet by a long shot. If the Braves win now, it will have to be uphill—the hard way.

That's because the Dodgers' lead is all in the vital "lost" column. Each team has won 88, but Brooklyn has lost only 57 to Milwaukee's 59.

The Challenge for Braves

The Dodgers have nine left, the Braves seven, and this "if" table shows what the Braves must do from here out in order to tie for the pennant:

If Dodgers Win: Braves Must Win
9 of 9 Dodgers clinch
8 of 9 Dodgers clinch
7 of 9 7 of 7
6 of 9 6 of 7
5 of 9 5 of 7

It all adds up to—the Braves must win 'em all, or pretty near all, unless Brooklyn suffers a major collapse.

On the brighter side for Braves fans: Pirate Manager Bobby Bragan promises to win three of seven games against Brooklyn. If he makes good, the Dodgers could wind up with four or five losses.

since they'll face Robin Roberts and Curt Simmons of the Phils in the only other two games.

The Pirates won yesterday's game twice for Bob Friend, who went the route with a four-hitter for his 16th victory. Jack Sheppard's seventh-inning homer gave him a 1-0 lead. Milwaukee tied the score with two out in the ninth when Chuck Tanner scored from third as Pirate first baseman Dale Long muffed Dick Groat's throw on Hank Aaron's grounder and then threw wildly for another error.

Friend choked off a Braves' two-on, one-out threat in the top of the 10th and Pittsburgh got its winning run in the last half when Bill Mazeroski singled with one out, took second on Friend's sacrifice, and scored on Bob Clemente's single to center—a low liner Bill Bruton reached but couldn't hold.

Ray Crone, who pitched the 10th in relief of Bob Buhl, suffered the defeat.

Dorrisville Wins Softball Title

Dorrisville copped the grade school district softball title Thursday afternoon by pounding out a 15-3 victory over Ridgway, last year's champion.

To take the title Dorrisville played and won four games in as many days, starting Monday with a win over Harrisburg, then on successive days defeating Carrier Mills, Norris City and Ridgway.

Dorrisville will participate in the state tourney to be held at Marion next week.

Carbondale Man Heads Educational Council of 100

CARBONDALE, Ill.—Clyde V. Winkler, superintendent of Carbondale elementary schools, has been appointed chairman of the Educational Council of 100 outdoor education committee.

Winkler succeeds Robert E. McBride, assistant professor of recreation and outdoor education at Southern Illinois University, who resigned in order to devote more time to teaching and supervising the SIU camp.

In making the appointment, Mrs. E. H. Schaller of Waterloo, Council president, praised Winkler for his leadership in outdoor education in Southern Illinois.

"Under Mr. Winkler's supervision, Carbondale elementary school pupils have been receiving outdoor learning experiences for the past four years," she said. "Each spring, Carbondale sixth graders spend a day and a night at Giant City State Park. Over 600 children have participated in this outdoor education program."

A new addition to Winkler's 15-member committee is Harold Crowell, Springmore School principal in Carbondale, who will assist in program development for "Si-Bo-Gi," the Council's 570-acre school camp site at Little Grassy Lake.

A lease arrangement with the federal government requires the Council to spend $10,000 annually for ten years in building the camp. Funds will come largely from school districts in Southern Illinois.

Next committee meeting is scheduled for Oct. 2, when members will visit the camp site both by car and by boat.
